Commission encourages passengers to enjoy these River Route destinations

The Great River Rail Commission aims to increase passenger rail options along the Mississippi River Route between the Twin Cities and Chicago. The Borealis train service provides a second daily round trip train that complements the existing Empire Builder schedule.

The Great River Rail Commission is made up of officials from local and regional governments all along the River Route from Saint Paul, MN to La Crosse, WI. The commission advocates for passenger trains between the Twin Cities and Chicago to increase opportunities for business, communities, college students, tourism, and more.
